Initiated in 1993, this program challenges and recognizes firms and companies (with at least five Virginia graduates) that achieve 100% participation in annual giving. Because many firms and companies are in multiple cities, offices with five or more graduates are recognized in the program. Those interested in achieving 100% participation should contact Helen Snyder ’87, Director of Annual and Reunion Giving, toll-free at 877-307-0158, or at hms4b@virginia.edu.

DEMOCRACY IN ACTION: THE LAW AND POLITICS OF LOCAL GOVERNANCE

Hosted by the Journal of Law & Politics, the conference convened experts from across the country to discuss the implications of issues such as suburban sprawl and the decay of urban centers, the privatization of public services through homeowners’ associations, the viability of regional governmental organizations, the effect of local government actions on American constitutional principles, and the innovations localities have made in responding to such pressures.
6TH ANNUAL CONFERENCE ON PUBLIC SERVICE & THE LAW

Founded by Law School students six years ago, the conference brings together students, citizens, and lawyers to discuss current public interest legal issues. This year’s conference featured a keynote address by Nadine Strossen, the President of the American Civil Liberties Union and a New York Law School professor. Katie Redford ’95, co-founder and co-director of EarthRights International, delivered the opening address. Conference panels and workshops covered asylum law, gender-based violence, mountaintop removal mining, judicial election campaigns, working as a lobbyist, and juvenile confessions.

The conference, which has played host to more than 1,000 participants and 100 panelists since its inception, draws students and speakers from across the country. A key component to this conference is that there is no cost to register and students attending from other law schools are offered free housing with Law School students during their stay.

BEYOND THE U.S. WAR ON TERRORISM: COMPARING DOMESTIC LEGAL REMEDIES TO AN INTERNATIONAL DILEMMA

Participants heard from some of the world’s leading terrorism experts, such as Paul Pillar, National Intelligence Officer for the Near East and South Asia, and Ambassador W. Robert Pearson ’68, Director General of the U.S. Foreign Service and former U.S. Ambassador to Turkey, who headlined a two-day symposium designed to compare different countries’ legal response to terrorism. The symposium was co-sponsored by the Strategic Studies Institute at the U.S. Army War College and the John Bassett Moore Society of International Law. Featured speakers also included Ruth Wedgwood of the Paul H. Nitze School of Advanced International Studies at Johns Hopkins University and Fionnuala Ni Aolain, Director of the Transitional Justice Institute at the University of Ulster in Northern Ireland, as well as speakers from Lebanon, Israel, Pakistan, Chile, and members of the U.S. Armed Services.
