JON C. JEFFRIES, JR., MODERATOR
David and Mary Harrison Distinguished Professor of Law, University of Virginia School of Law
John Jeffries joined the Virginia Law faculty two years after earning his law degree in 1973. His primary research and teaching interests are civil rights, federal courts, criminal law, and constitutional law. Jeffries has co-authored casebooks in civil rights, federal courts, and criminal law and has published a variety of articles in those fields. He served as dean of the School of Law from the fall of 2001 until June 2008.

MAGGIE L. ROBERTS
David and Mary Harrison Distinguished Professor of Law, University of Virginia School of Law
Before joining the University of Virginia School of Law in 2008, Frederick Schauer served for 18 years as Frank Stanton Professor of the First Amendment at the John F. Kennedy School of Government at Harvard University, where he was also academic dean and acting dean. He is the author of “The Law of Obscenity,” “Free Speech: A Philosophical Enquiry,” “Playing By the Rules: A Philosophical Examination of Rule-Based Decision-Making in Law and in Life,” “Profiles, Probabilities, and Stereotypes,” and “Thinking Like a Lawyer: A New Introduction to Legal Reasoning.” Schauer is also co-editor of “The Philosophy of Law: Classic and Contemporary Readings” and “The First Amendment: A Reader,” and author of numerous articles on constitutional law and theory, freedom of speech and press, legal reasoning and the philosophy of law.

JOSEPH M. BIRKENSTOCK
Cofon & Drysdale
Joseph Birkenstock’s practice focuses on advising corporations, nonprofit organizations, candidates, officeholders, and other clients in structuring new political efforts and administering their political, lobbying, and issue-advocacy projects. He also helps clients respond to controversies involving issues of political law, such as alleged campaign finance improprieties, conflicts of interest, and real or perceived violations of other legal and ethical obligations.

MICHAEL D. GILBERT
Associate Professor of Law, University of Virginia School of Law
Michael Gilbert joined the Virginia Law faculty in 2009. His areas of interest include election law, voting rights, and state and local government law. From 1998 to 2000, he was executive director of the Special Commission on Campaign Finance Reform of the Association of the Bar of the City of New York.

LESLIE KENDRICK
Associate Professor of Law, University of Virginia School of Law
Leslie Kendrick clerked for Judge J. Harvie Wilkinson III and U.S. Supreme Court Justice David Hackett Souter before joining the Virginia faculty in 2008. She teaches courses in First Amendment law and theory, and her research interests include content discrimination and the role of speaker’s intent in First Amendment law.

HELEN NORTON
Associate Professor of Law, University of Colorado Law School
Helen Norton joined the Colorado Law faculty in 2007. Her scholarly and teaching interests include constitutional law, civil rights, and employment discrimination law. She served on the transition team charged with reviewing the Equal Employment Opportunity Commission in 2008, and is frequently invited to testify before Congress and federal agencies on civil rights law and policy issues.

FREDERICK SCHAUER
David and Mary Harrison Distinguished Professor of Law, University of Virginia School of Law
Richard Hasen is a professor of law and political science at the University of California, Irvine. He is a nationally recognized expert in election law and campaign finance regulation and is co-author of a leading casebook on election law. From 2001 to 2010, he served as founding co-editor of the quarterly peer-reviewed publication, Election Law Journal. He is the author of more than four dozen articles on election law issues, and of the forthcoming book, “The Voting Wars: From Florida 2000 to the Next Election Meltdown.”

PAMELA S. KARLAN
Kenneth and Harle Montgomery Professor of Public Interest Law, Stanford Law School
Pamela Karlan joined the Stanford Law School faculty in 1998. One of the nation’s leading experts on voting and the political process, she has served as a commissioner on the California Fair Political Practices Commission and an assistant counsel and cooperating attorney for the NAACP Legal Defense Fund. She is also the co-author of three leading casebooks on constitutional law, constitutional litigation, and the law of democracy, as well as more than 60 scholarly articles. Before joining Stanford, she was a professor of law at the University of Virginia School of Law.

JOSEPH P. CHAMBERLAIN
Professor of Legislation, Columbia Law School
Richard Briffault joined the Columbia Law faculty in 1991. His areas of interest include campaign finance law, electoral law, civil procedure, and legal theory. A former clerk for then–federal appeals court Judge Stephen G. Breyer and U.S. Supreme Court Justice Lewis F. Powell, Jr., Ortiz also teaches Virginia’s Supreme Court Litigation Clinic. He has co-edited “Campaign Finance Reform: A Sourcebook.”

Bruce Sanford has defended more than 1,000 libel, intellectual property, and First Amendment cases throughout the United States, Canada, and abroad. He has been described by American Journalism Review as one of the most accomplished press lawyers in the nation. The National Law Journal mentioned him in a list of the 100 most-influential lawyers in America, and a Washingtonian article on “The 50 Best Lawyers in Washington” noted he was “without peer” in First Amendment Law. In recent years, Sanford has represented President Clinton in the negotiation and publication of a book and won libel and copyright cases brought against First Lady Barbara Bush and John Grisham, respectively.

Bruce D. Brown
Baker Hostetler; Lecturer, University of Virginia School of Law
A former reporter, Bruce Brown focuses his practice in the areas of libel and invasion of privacy defense, copyright, and the law of newsgathering. He also advises clients on pre-publication review, author-publisher agreements and website liability issues and regularly assists the Society of Professional Journalists on freedom of information matters. Brown co-directs the First Amendment clinic at the University of Virginia School of Law and is an adjunct faculty member in Georgetown University’s master’s program in Professional Studies in Journalism. He has been co-chair of the Legislative Affairs Committee of the Media Law Resource Center in New York.
