Dean's Message

FOR THE SECOND YEAR IN A ROW, MORE THAN 50 PERCENT OF OUR GRADUATES made gifts to the Law School. That record of alumni support is unmatched by any other law school, public or private. For Virginia to lead the way in alumni participation is a remarkable achievement. Historically, graduates of public universities often assumed that they “gave at the office” when they paid taxes. Today, of course, the Law School is financially self-sufficient and receives no state funds. We rely primarily on tuition and secondarily, but crucially, on private giving.

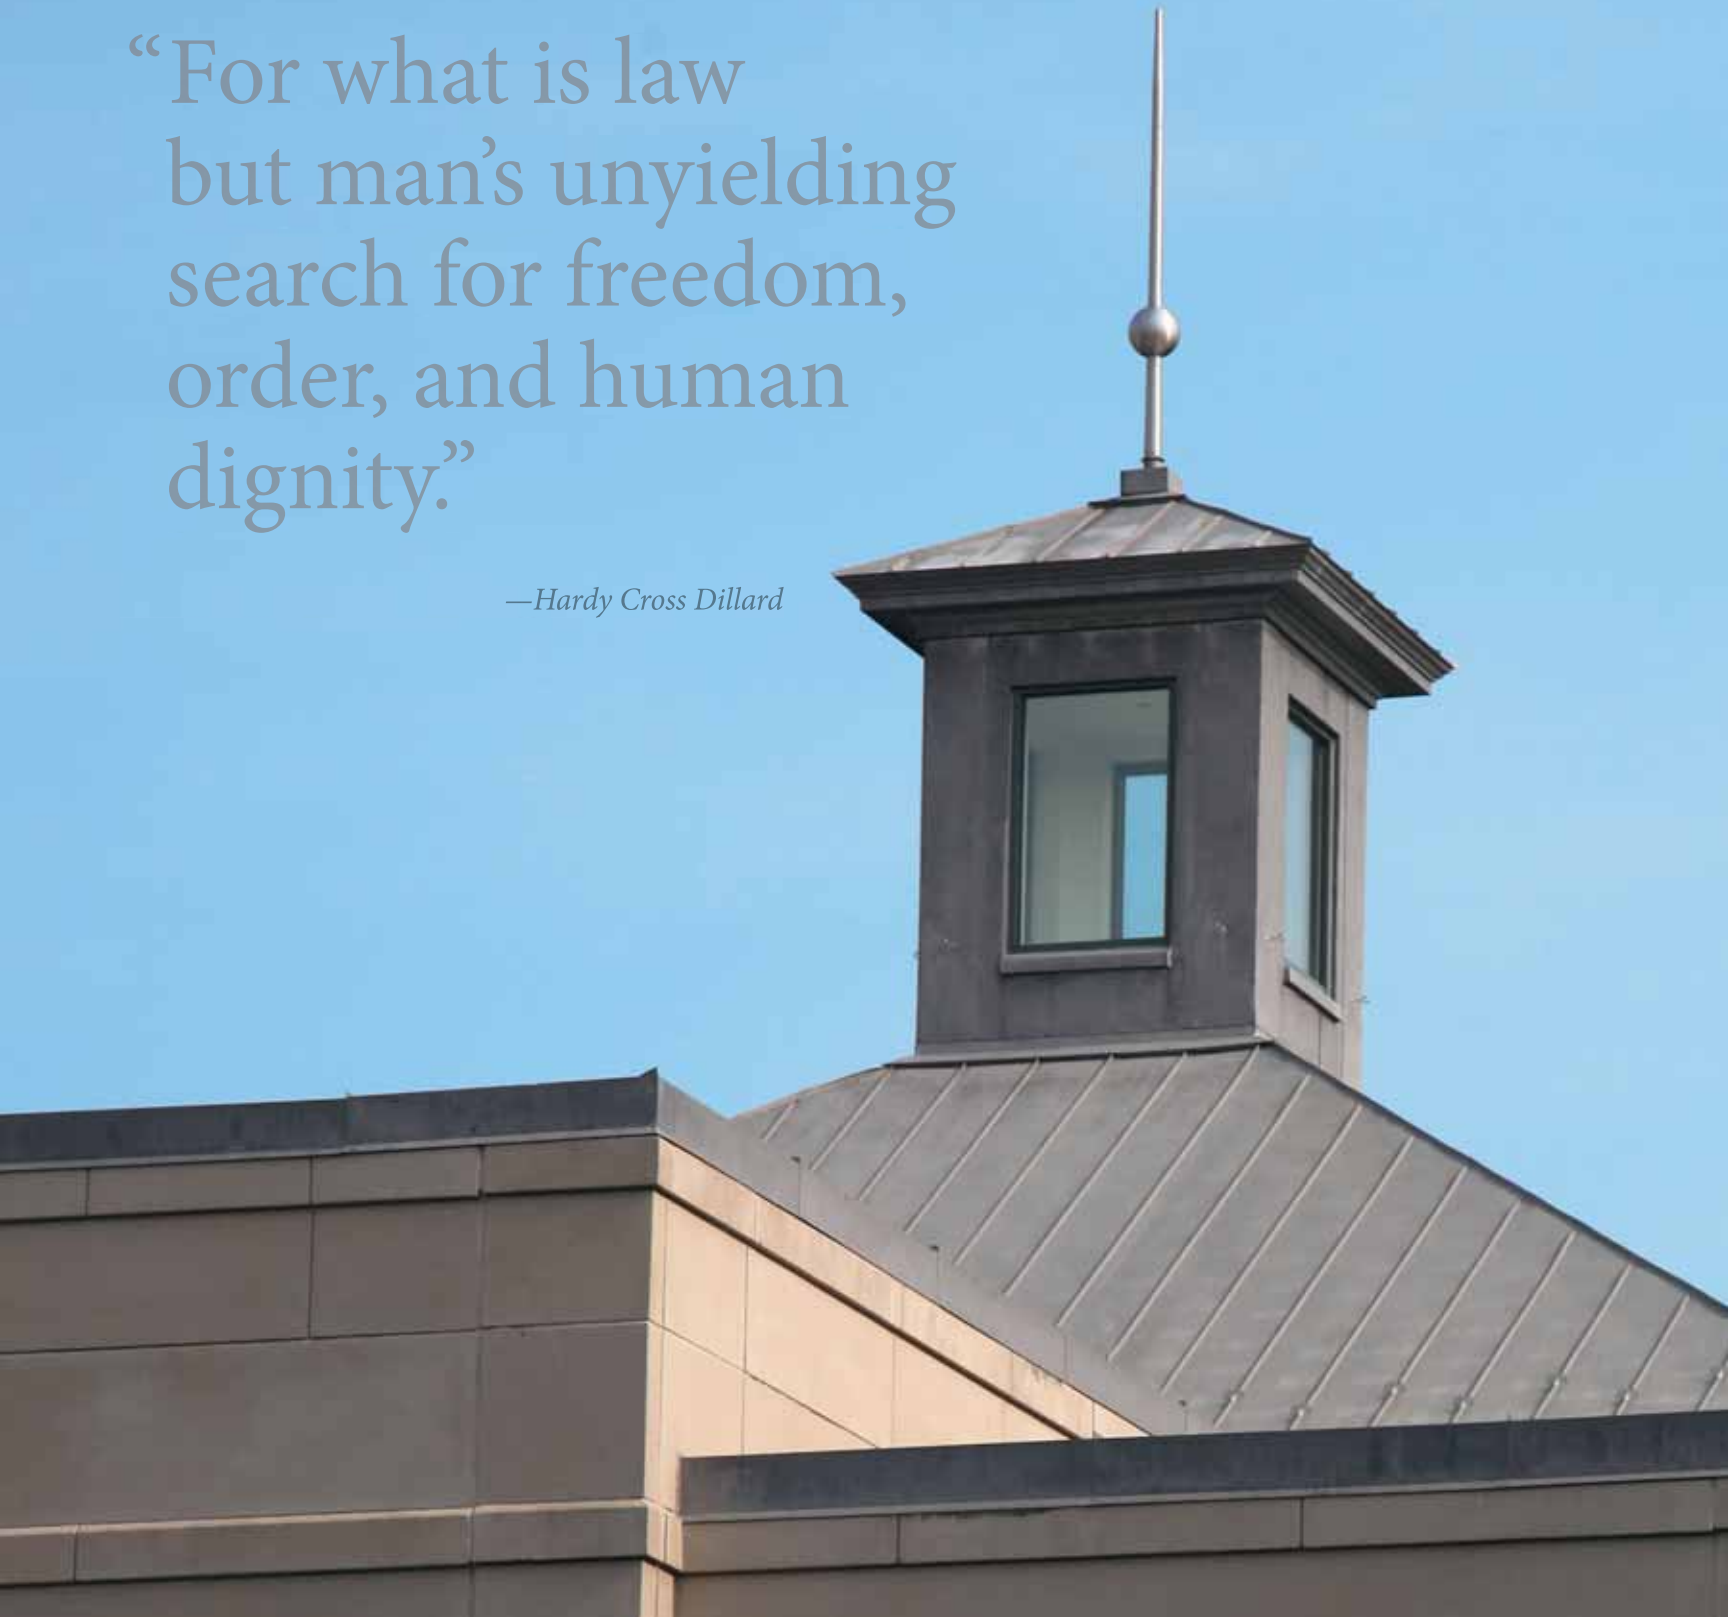

In the pages that follow, you will see what your gifts accomplish. They allow us to compete nationally for leading faculty, to provide much-needed scholarship support for deserving students, and to sponsor the huge variety of events, activities, projects, and publications that make the Law School such a vibrant and exciting place.

In short, your generosity is indispensable. All of us who are privileged to study and work in Charlottesville are deeply grateful.

John C. Jeffries, Jr. '73, Dean

“For what is law
but man’s unyielding
search for freedom, order, and human dignity.”

—Hardy Cross Dillard

Leadership Report

July 1, 2006 through June 30, 2007

WE ARE PLEASED TO REPORT THAT IN THIS FIRST YEAR OF THE CAPITAL CAMPAIGN, more alumni than ever made gifts to the Law School. Once again, annual giving participation surpassed fifty percent—an achievement no other law school can claim.

Your gifts make possible the vibrant and diverse community that is Virginia Law, but monetary donations are not the sole means of supporting the Law School.

Alumni engagement is at an all-time high. Alumni serve as members of the Business Advisory Council, as reunion managers, as hosts for alumni events in their cities. Alumni visit Charlottesville to share their professional experiences, present books they have written, or talk about trials they have conducted. Alumni return to conduct job interviews with current students and judge first-year oral arguments.

We salute you, the friends and graduates of Virginia Law, and wish to share here a summary of the Law School's health and strength as of June 30, 2007, the close of the fiscal year:

LAW SCHOOL FOUNDATION

- The market value of Foundation assets is $305.5 million, and the University holds an additional $44.5 million in funds designated for the Law School. The combined value of these assets for the benefit of the Law School exceeds $350 million.
- Private gift support for the Law School, including annual giving, bequests, and special gifts, totaled $13,815,235.
- Membership in the Dean's Council, the Law School's highest donor recognition group, continues to grow, with more than 400 members.

ANNUAL GIVING

- The 42nd annual giving campaign raised a record $9.8 million, of which $4.5 million was unrestricted.
- A record 7,643 donors contributed to the annual giving campaign, crossing fifty percent alumni participation for the second straight year.
- 90% of the Class of 2007 participated in "Believe," their graduation gift campaign, signaling even greater support for annual giving in the years ahead.

ALUMNI ASSOCIATION

This year, Law School alumni, faculty, and friends gathered in Richmond, Washington, Atlanta, San Francisco, Birmingham, Dallas, Houston, New York City, Chicago, and Northern Virginia.

Dean Jeffries spent time with alumni at the Orrick offices in San Francisco. He met with Dallas alumni at the Dallas Petroleum Club, and with Houston alumni at the home of Mike Caddell '79 and Cynthia Chapman. Tri-state alumni were treated to an enlightening address by Tom Ostertag '81, General Counsel for Major League Baseball, at the annual New York City luncheon. The highlight of the year was once again Law Alumni Weekend, when nearly 1,000 alumni and their guests returned to Charlottesville for Reunions in May.

We thank you, friends and fellow graduates, for your continued support, your work, and your dedication to the Law School. You are the legacy that is the University of Virginia School of Law.

Initiated in 1993, the 100% Participation Program challenges and recognizes firms and companies (with at least five Virginia graduates) that achieve 100% participation in annual giving. Because many firms and companies are in multiple cities, offices with five or more graduates are recognized in the program.

Those interested in achieving 100% participation should contact Helen Snyder '87, Chief Operating Officer, at (877) 307-0158, or at helensnyder@virginia.edu.

Why?

Young alumni continue to set new participation standards in annual giving. Ninety-five percent of the Class of 2006 made a gift to the 2006-2007 Annual Giving Campaign, surpassing its pledge rate at graduation of 92%.

Why give to Virginia Law?

“Outside the traditional reasons such as attracting top-flight professors, keeping tuition competitive, and maintaining a great building for the study of legal education, I believe there is a more important reason to give to Virginia Law—to send a message.

“When lawyers, law schools, and law students, both current and prospective, see that Virginia Law alumni give at a significantly higher rate than any other law school alumni in the country, it sends an unambiguous message that people leave the Law School with the fondest of memories, in addition to a legal education that yields success.”

—Chris Kavanaugh '06, Class Manager

The Law School's reunion gift program is one of the most important elements of the Annual Giving Campaign. Reunion pledges typically span five years, beginning with the year of the reunion celebration.

When?

“For several years I have wanted to contribute a larger sum to the Annual Fund than I have traditionally been able to in June of each year—always just before the end of each Annual Fund Year!

“Last summer it occurred to me that I could contribute significantly more each year by having the Law School Foundation, pursuant to a pre-authorization program, charge my credit card each month for an amount that would not only comfortably fit into my monthly budget, but also enable me to make a more significant and meaningful annual contribution.

“I would encourage any alumni, especially the Class of '64, to consider such a program. It works well for me.”

—W. Thomas Grimm '64

Where?

Protesters at the Adriaan Vlok trial, August 17, Pretoria, South Africa. Vlok was a high ranking apartheid government official who was involved in the attempted murder of Rev. Frank Chikane, a freedom fighter.

“The experience of putting the legal knowledge I gained at Virginia Law to practice in a country that has such pressing human rights needs is something that will stay with me for as long as I live.

“It’s opportunities like the fellowship that led me to pursue my legal studies at Virginia and that have made me feel so proud and so fortunate to be a student here.”

—Dennis Barrett '09

The Class of 1957 is funding the South Africa Human Rights Summer Fellowships for qualified law students. Leigh Middleditch '57 was motivated to establish and provide initial funding for the fellowships because of his years of involvement, together with Frank Stewart '57, James St. Clair '60, Robert Smith LL.M. '86, and Paul Coetser LL.M. '87, teaching commercial law to black South Africans.

“I hope to strengthen ties between the Law School and South Africa, including human rights organizations, and to honor the Law School’s Class of 1957,” Middleditch said.

Dennis Barrett '09 and Germaine Dunn '09 were inaugural recipients of the fellowships, which provide a $7,500 stipend for students working for human rights organizations in South Africa.

Barrett worked with the Centre for Applied Legal Studies within the law faculty at the University of Witwatersrand in Johannesburg. His work focused on how customary law is impacting women’s access to land under the 2004 Communal Land Rights Act (CLRA). Not yet implemented, the CLRA, seeks to use land administration committees to transfer land from the state to the individuals now living on the land.

Dunn spent the summer at the Khulumani Support Group in Johannesburg, studying the unfinished business of the Truth and Reconciliation Commission, as well as researching various reparation proposals and government policies. Her work is being used to support arguments on behalf of uncompensated and overlooked apartheid victims.

Where?

THANKS TO ALUMNI GIVING and student fundraising, eight law students journeyed to India over winter break to investigate human rights issues and violations.

Despite India's regional and global influence, human rights concerns pose challenges in every corner of the country, which makes for an active public interest legal community and an ideal case study for students. The students worked with organizations and spoke face-to-face with the people involved in the human rights issues—adding a new dimension to their studies.

The Law School's Human Rights Study Project is a student-initiated effort to advance the study of legal issues surrounding the protection and promotion of human rights throughout the world. Over the course of a year, students pursue original academic research on a variety of human rights topics and conduct field work abroad, culminating in formal presentations and a substantial publication.

The 2007 expedition marked the fifth trip abroad, with previous student groups traveling to China, Syria and Lebanon, Sierra Leone, and Cuba. The 2008 HRSP plans to travel to East Africa. Cameron L. Cowan '81, and his wife, P.J., for whom the fellows are named, have made a commitment to underwrite the project.

Who?

Alumni support student organizations and student journals in myriad ways, from serving as guest speakers to underwriting symposia. In 2007, the Virginia Law & Business Review and the Virginia Law & Business Society co-sponsored a symposium investigating the growing impact of institutional investors on corporate governance. The event featured leading business and legal scholars, as well as top executives from the institutional investor community.
